

The Famous Rayo Lamp

The best part of the day is the evening, when the whole family is gathered together around the lamp.

The old days of the smoky fireplace and flickering candle are gone forever. In their place have come the convenient oil stove and the indispensable Rayo Lamp.

There are to-day, in the United States alone, more than 3,000,000 of these Rayo lamps, giving their clear, white light to more than 3,000,000 homes.

Other lamps cost more, but you cannot get a better light than the low-priced Rayo gives. It has become so popular we may almost call it "the official lamp of the American family."

The Rayo is made of solid brass, with handsome nickel finish—an ornament anywhere.

Ask your dealer for a Rayo lamp; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of the

THE WATERS OF LAKE TAHOE

It has been very generally supposed that the danger of the diversion of the waters of Lake Tahoe in Nevada for irrigation purposes had been averted for good last winter by the action of the legislature and of the California delegation in congress. When it was learned that it was proposed to let a contract for the construction of a dam and canal to carry the water into Nevada, where the government is engaged upon an extensive irrigation project, the legislature passed resolutions of protest, which were presented at Washington by the delegation and a halt was called. But it appears the scheme has not been abandoned, and that the fight is not yet won.

The Sacramento Bee is authority for the statement that plans for the use of Lake Tahoe water for the purpose stated are going forward just as if they had never been arrested, and that California will endeavor to put an end to them by means of a suit in the United States supreme court, demanding that an apportionment be made of the water belonging to each state.

Such a course is deemed necessary in order to protect California's rights. It appears imperative that it should be definitely settled how much water

Nevada may have. There is enough in the lake to water her immense valley, but there are also needs on this side of the mountains to be met. California has lands to be irrigated and power enterprises to be carried out which require a part of Lake Tahoe's store of water. Therefore the irrigation bodies of this state are moving, and will, as stated, institute a suit and fight the matter out. Details of the plan are not yet ready for publication, but that there will be such a suit is definitely known.

With an adjudication of the state's rights to Lake Tahoe water, the water and power resources under control of the California conservation body for the state will be unsurpassed in the entire United States.

It is held that with the rapid development of the state, these resources will not long remain latent.—Santa Rosa Press Democrat.

LONDON'S SWINGING TOLLGATE.

The members of the Chamberwell Borough Council recently received the announcement from the Works Committee that the Dulwich College authorities are not yet disposed to close the famous old tollgate in College road. The Works Committee, in response to a petition, had been in communication with the governors of the estates as to taking over the road as a new street, which would involve the removal of the tollgate. The reply of the secretary and general manager was that the governors were of the opinion that the road was not yet sufficiently ripe to be taken over, and that they did not contemplate removing the tollgate.

Thus the only tollgate remaining in the whole of Greater London, in spite of a most vigorous attack, has again survived, and is promised yet another extensive lease of life. Ever since the demolition of the tollgate in Court lane, which runs parallel with the College road, about twelve years ago, rumors declaring that the departure of the remaining turnpike was at hand have been numerous. Yet here in Old World Dulwich, daily toll continues to be taken.

The present keeper has been at the post for about ten years, and at all hours of the day may be seen passing the roadway before his creeper-covered cottage.

The gate-keeper does not find it necessary to close his gate except on rare occasions, when it appears doubtful whether the toll will be collected or not. As a rule the old white gate remains open all day, and when a vehicle approaches the keeper stops it by holding up his hand.—London Standard.

WON FAME IN A NIGHT.

A little wisp of a girl singer has achieved world-fame in a single night. She is Miss Felice Lyne, who, on Saturday night, made her debut in grand opera at the London opera house, and woke up yesterday morning to find the musical world acclaiming her as another Melba.

And last night, also at the London opera house, she stood nervously and shyly before a vast audience and thrilled everybody with the richness and purity of her superb soprano voice.

Dressed in a simple terra-cotta gown, she looked so dainty and frail as she walked on the stage that it was difficult to realize that such a slight girl could possess a voice more than equal to the heavy demands of grand opera.

She began somewhat nervously, but soon recovered herself, and brought out her fresh, full, young voice with an ease and beauty of expression that was delightful to hear.

She was vociferously applauded. Miss Lyne is of Cornish descent, and was born in Kansas City, Mo. She is only 29 years of age, is five feet one inch in height, and weighs a grain or so under seven stone.

"Oh, I am so ill today," she said, when asked by a reporter to describe how it feels to achieve fame in a night. "I'm cutting a wisdom tooth. Look at my cheek—swollen! And I'm full up with cocaine. Oh! don't ask me to speak, please."

"It's the tooth of success you're cutting," interpolated Oscar Hammerstein, who "discovered" the new singer.

"Well," said Miss Lyne, softening, "just a few words, then. I didn't sing when I was a child. I was 16 years old when I began, and I sang a few songs at the Manhattan opera house in New York."

"Afterward I went to Paris, and there studied under Mme. Marchesi, and later M. d'Aubigne."

"Then Mr. Hammerstein engaged me, and I made my first appearance in this country last night as Gilda in 'Rigoletto.'"

"The range of my voice? I can sing up to F in alto easily."

It was after her rendering of "Caro Nome," in which she reached E in alto, that the musical world decided that a new star of the first magnitude had been found, and by special request she repeated the air at the opera house concert last night.—London Daily Mail.

IRON AND STEEL WORKS IN INDIA.

Rapid progress is being made with the construction of the Tata iron and steel works at Sakchi, a village of Singhbhum in Chota Nagpur, Bengal, India, and in a few months the first blast furnace is to be "blown in," the steel furnaces and the rolling mills beginning to work a little later.

One leading idea followed in the design of the works has been to avoid as far as possible the use of manual labor. By dint of labor-saving machinery this factor is reduced to its lowest proportion. Only 2,500 laborers will be required, and as over 8,000 have been employed in the construction of the works, it is anticipated that little difficulty will be experienced in securing a quarter of that number, especially as the works are situated in a labor recruiting district. Of labor-saving devices the coke ovens and the coal-crushing plant furnish a fine example. The coal is carried mechanically into the crushers, and after being pulverized till the proportion equalling the size of a pea is less than 1 per cent, it is shot up into an elevator, from which it is discharged into wagons
